

S.E.L. Maduro and Sons lifts their glasses in “A Toast to 2007”

It would appear there is a new trend in Aruba, and a very pleasant one, at that. During a short, busy holiday season not all companies have the time to celebrate with their employees the end of the year, and so perking up the doldrums of January appears to be a recent and appreciated practice. S.E.L. Maduro and Sons initiated this new tradition last year, and it proved to be a great success.

S.E.L. Maduro and Sons held just such a gathering, titled “A toast to 2007” in the courtyard of their complex on Thursday evening, January 18. It brought together various business executives and line men to share a convivial moment with Maduro and Son’s General Manager Hensey Beaujon. Additionally joining them for this were individuals that represented the various companies that use the services of Maduro and Son’s in their enterprises, or are subcontracted by them.

Maduro and Son’s is one of the top providers of recreational travel planning thorough their agency, My Adventures, and one of the major cargo handlers on the island. They are also the exclusive agents for most of the cruise lines that stop in Aruba. Therefore, the employees and colleagues that they do business with made quite a crowd, enjoying a festive evening of lively conversation and the soft sounds of steelpan music while the sunset. It was a very agreeable way for the management of S.E.L. Maduro and Son’s to show their appreciation to all their employees for a job well done through 2006, and also for the cooperation and efforts by their partners in business for contributing to their success.
